

Your Rights and Protections Against Surprise Medical Bills

When you get emergency care or are treated by an out-of-network provider at an in-network facility, including a hospital or ambulatory surgical center, you are protected from balance billing. In these cases, you shouldn't be charged more than your plan's copayments, coinsurance, and/or deductible.

What is "balance billing" (sometimes called "surprise billing")?

When you see a doctor or other health care provider, you may owe certain out-of-pocket costs, like a copayment, coinsurance, or deductible. You may have additional costs or have to pay the entire bill if you see a provider or visit a health care facility that isn't in your health plan's network.

- "Out-of-network" means providers and facilities that haven't signed a contract with your health plan to provide services. Out-of-network providers may be allowed to bill you for the difference between what your plan pays and the full amount charged for a service. This is called "balance billing." This amount is likely more than in-network costs for the same service and might not count toward your plan's deductible or annual out-of-pocket limit.
- "Surprise billing" is an unexpected balance bill. This can happen when you can't control who is involved in your care — like when you have an emergency or when you schedule a visit at an in-network facility, but are unexpectedly treated by an out-of-network provider. Surprise medical bills could cost thousands of dollars, depending on the procedure or service.

Dana-Farber has in-network contracts with many group health plans and insurance issuers. We will contact you as part of your registration and scheduling process to inform you if Dana-Farber is out-of-network with your health plan:

- If Dana-Farber is in-network with your health plan, then under Massachusetts law (i) you are entitled to request disclosure of the allowed amount that your insurance will pay and the amount of any facility fees for the admission, procedure, or service; and (ii) you may obtain additional information about any applicable out-of-pocket costs from your health plan. The rest of this notice does not apply to you.
- If Dana-Farber is out-of-network with your health plan, then under Massachusetts law (i) you are entitled to receive the charge and the amount of any facility fees for your admission, procedure, or service; (ii) you will be responsible for the amount of the charge and the amount of any facility fees for the admission, procedure or service not covered through your health plan; and (iii) you may be able to obtain the admission, procedure, or service at a lower cost from a health care provider who participates in your health plan. Please read all of this notice to learn your rights.

You are protected from balance billing for:

- Emergency services: If you have an emergency medical condition and get emergency services from an out-of-network provider or facility, the most they can bill you is your plan's in-network cost-sharing amount (such as copayments, coinsurance, and deductibles). You can't be balance billed for these emergency services. This includes services you may get after you are in stable condition, unless you give written consent and give up your protections not to be balanced billed for these post-stabilization services.

- Certain services at an in-network facility, including a hospital or ambulatory surgical center:
When you get services from an in-network facility, including a hospital or ambulatory surgical center, certain providers there may be out-of-network. In these cases, the most those providers can bill you is your plan's in-network cost-sharing amount. This applies to emergency medicine, anesthesia, pathology, radiology, laboratory, neonatology, assistant surgeon, hospitalist, or intensivist services. These providers can't balance bill you and may not ask you to give up your protections not to be balance billed. If you get other types of services at these in-network facilities, out-of-network providers can't balance bill you, unless you give written consent and give up your protections.

You are never required to give up your protections from balance billing under federal and Massachusetts law. You also aren't required to get out-of-network care. You can choose a provider or facility in your plan's network.

When balance billing isn't allowed, you also have these protections:

- You are only responsible for paying your share of the cost (like the copayments, coinsurance, and deductible that you would pay if the provider or facility was in-network). Your health plan will pay any additional costs to out-of-network providers and facilities directly.
- Generally, your health plan must:
 - Cover emergency services without requiring you to get approval for services in advance (also known as "prior authorization").
 - Cover emergency services by out-of-network providers.
 - Base what you owe the provider or facility (cost-sharing) on what it would pay an in-network provider or facility and show that amount in your explanation of benefits.
 - Count any amount you pay for emergency services or out-of-network services toward your in-network deductible and out-of-pocket limit.

Massachusetts Law

Massachusetts law requires your health care provider to disclose whether a provider is in-network or out-of-network with your health plan. If a health care provider does not notify you verbally and in writing that it is out-of-network with your health plan within the required timeframes (i.e., within 7 days of your admission or service if it was scheduled at least 7 days in advance, within 2 days of your admission or services (or as soon as practicable) if it was scheduled less than 7 days in advance), the provider can only bill you for your in-network cost-sharing amount.
