

Paying for Your Care

Please review this before your first appointment. It can help you learn about your financial responsibility and insurance coverage. It is designed to make your first visit as easy as possible.

Before Your First Visit

The most important financial step you can take before your first appointment is to make sure that you understand your health insurance coverage. Take these steps as soon as possible:

1. Call your health insurance company and ask for member services. Go through the “Questions to Ask Your Insurer” checklist (below). You should be able to find your insurer’s phone number on the back of your health insurance card.
2. Call your primary care physician to make sure your coverage includes Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and Brigham and Women’s Hospital. Ask whether you need a referral or out-of-network approval for services to be covered at Dana-Farber and/or Brigham and Women’s.

Remember: Many insurance companies require referrals or other approvals from your primary care physician or health plan before you receive treatment.

Questions to Ask Your Insurer

The level of coverage for exams and other medical procedures will depend on your specific health plan, so it is important that you fully understand your policy.

When you call your insurance company, ask these questions:

- Are Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and Brigham and Women’s Hospital in my network? If so, how much will my co-payments and other out-of-pocket expenses cost?
- If Dana-Farber and/or Brigham and Women’s Hospital are not in my network and I go out of network, what percentage of the bill will I be responsible for?
- What type of insurance plan do I have (HMO, POS, or PPO)? What does this mean in terms of where I receive my care and whether I will have out-of-pocket expenses?
- Does my insurance plan cover physician costs as well as inpatient and outpatient hospital services? (Your visits with specialists at Dana-Farber will be billed as an outpatient hospital service.)
- Before I see a doctor at Dana-Farber, do I need a referral from my primary care physician? Will I also need authorization from my insurance provider?
- Does my policy have an out-of-pocket maximum? If so, how does this work?
- Will I be covered for testing, pathology, or radiology charges that may be part of my first visit with a Dana-Farber doctor?
- What is my coverage for prescription medications? Does it include coverage for oral chemotherapy medications?
- Does my insurance plan offer any additional coverage through special networks or programs? For example, does it offer traveling and lodging benefits for a stem cell transplant?

Tips to Remember

- Insurance referrals can be sent by fax (617-751-7027) or phone (877-994-4567).

- If you do not have insurance or you switch to a new plan, or if you need a price estimate for your visit, please call our Financial Counselors at 617-582-9820.

A note about pathology review: Most of the time, we will need to review your pathology slides (such as a tissue sample from a biopsy) before your first visit. This means that you or your insurance may be billed for pathology review even if you cancel your appointment.
