

Dana-Farber Cancer Institute

Kayla Fahle, MPAS, PA-C

Physician Assistant, Gastrointestinal Cancer Center

Biography

After earning her Masters in Physician Assistant Studies, Kayla began her physician assistant career at New York Presbyterian Hospital in New York City, working in orthopedic spine surgery. In 2017, she moved to Seattle, WA where she began her oncology career, with the gastrointestinal medical oncology group at Seattle Cancer Care Alliance/University of Washington. She spent a year in St. Louis, Missouri working in general hematology/oncology before happily moving back to New England in early 2020, to join Dana-Farber's Gastrointestinal Cancer Center.

Background

Education

Northeastern University, Boston, MA

Bachelors of Science in Behavioral Neuroscience, 2013

University of New England, Portland, ME

Masters of Science in Physician Assistant Studies, 2015

Board Certification

National Commission on Certification of Physician Assistants, 2015

Industry Associations

Member of Association of Physician Assistants in Oncology

Member of Advanced Practitioner Society for Oncology and Hematology