

Dana-Farber
Cancer Institute

Lauren Ritterband
Research Nurse

Biography

Lauren moved from outside of Philadelphia to the Boston area in 2011 to pursue a Bachelor of Arts in Human Development and Child Study from Tufts University. Her first job post-graduation as an administrative assistant at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center helped her realize she wanted to be involved in clinical care, especially for people managing a cancer diagnosis. She completed a Bachelor of Science in Nursing at the MGH Institute of Health Professions and joined Dana-Farber as part of the Research Nurse Residency program for Newly Licensed Nurses. After completing the residency program in August 2020, she joined the Gastrointestinal Cancer Center team.

Background

Education

Tufts University, Medford MA

Bachelor of Arts in Human Development and Child Study, 2015

MGH Institute of Health Professions, Boston MA

Bachelor of Science in Nursing, 2019